

GUIDELINES FOR DEVELOPING A SAFETY & PROTECTION POLICY FOR CHILDREN / YOUTHS / VULNERABLE ADULTS (FOR PLACES OF WORSHIP)

INTRODUCTION

The abuse of a vulnerable person, whether the victim is a child or an adult, tears at the fabric of family and community life and has far-reaching consequences. A serious incident of abuse can undermine years of dedicated service by a Place of Worship, and can lead to declining participation, low morale, and a diminished sense of confidence within the community. In the end, it is not just the victims that suffer, but also the spiritual leaders, employees, and volunteers who have committed their lives to caring for them.

Every Place of Worship should have a well thought-out and clearly defined abuse prevention policy. This document intends to highlight relevant issues surrounding abuse and suggests areas to concentrate on in order to mitigate the exposure. This document should not be thought of as an abuse prevention policy, but rather a guideline to assist in the development of such a policy. As society and the law evolve, Faith organizations that provide services to children / youths / vulnerable adults are under increasing pressure to ensure that adequate measures are in place to protect them. Ideally, in partnership with legal counsel, your Place of Worship should draft a suitable abuse prevention policy that meets the needs of your community. In general, a good abuse policy will touch on each point addressed in this guideline. On the 'Resources' page, Appendix 14, you'll find links to references for further research on abuse prevention policies.

REASONS FOR DEVELOPING AN ABUSE PREVENTION POLICY

- Prevention of abuse of children / youth / vulnerable adults. Prevention includes having adequate processes in place in order to prevent opportunities for abuse, neglect, and harm from arising.
- Protection of all the vulnerable in our midst. The protection of all children, youth and vulnerable adults is everyone's responsibility.
- Reporting of all incidents of abuse, neglect and harm. Such incidents, wherever, and whenever they are encountered, will be reported immediately to a designated internal authority, the police, and the appropriate agencies in accordance with civil law requirements.
- Training and Support for staff and volunteers. A process of screening, recruiting, training, supervising and supporting staff and volunteers.
- Protection of the organization from law suits involving allegations of abuse. Abuse can place the reputation of the organization in jeopardy, and the financial costs of defending lawsuits can be devastating. (See Appendix 13 for an explanation of the legal considerations)

Most Places of Worship have a separate Sexual Abuse and Harassment Policy, which defines the procedure for responding to allegations of abuse (See Appendix 12, Dealing with Reports of Abuse). These should be reviewed to ensure they apply to abuses other than sexual abuse and apply to all individuals in addition to children. Most organizations designate a senior executive member of the organization as the contact for disclosures of abuse.

Communicating the Abuse Prevention Policy:

This policy and its procedures must be clearly communicated to all members of the organization (including board members, paid staff, and volunteers), to all groups governed by and run by the organization, and to all others using the facilities.

Definition of Terms in the Policy and Implementation:

Defines the organizational structure, legal entities, titles, position descriptions for responsible parties, and programs specific to the organization.

Examples:

- Child / Youth: a person who is under 18 years of age. (Some Canadian provinces/territories classify children/youths as 16 years of age and younger. A decision must be made on which age to use.)
- Event: occasional or one-time events run by an organization or community. Examples: a yearly concert, tea or picnic, etc.
- Committee: a group of persons responsible for ensuring that the policy is put into place.
- Religious Leaders: all individuals recognized by and acting on behalf of the organization, and empowered to provide religious instruction and spiritual guidance to others
- Leader position: a leadership role occupied by an employee or volunteer where there is expected to be direct interaction with children, youth, or vulnerable adults. Examples include: the positions of program leader, youth group leader, personal care worker, camp counselor, teacher, after-school tutor, etc.

- Umbrella organization: for the purposes of the policy, this shall include the regional and national divisions and all related organizations and the programs that they oversee and sponsor.
- Program (Ministry): a structured series of similar activities or events governed and run by the Place of Worship which spans a period of weeks or months, and in which the level of risk is expected to remain constant. (Examples include: a weekly Sunday school; the routine pastoral visitation of an elderly person, weekly youth meetings, the operation of a Sunday morning nursery, an out-of-the-cold program, etc.)
- Risk Assessment: a process by which programs are rated according to risk factors. High-risk ministries and activities will require special attention.
- Role Descriptions for leaders: a person at least 18 years of age who devotes significant portions of his / her time and energy in service and who has gone through a period of orientation and training, in order to hold a leader position. Examples include: Sunday school teacher, youth leader, pastoral care visitor, leader of a group for developmentally challenged adults, paid staff, clergy, and other professional workers. (Note: It is common practice in many organizations to use volunteer helpers who are between the ages of 12 and 18. Youthful leadership is to be encouraged and supported. However, it should be noted that when leaders are mentioned in this policy, we are referring to people of at least 18 years of age. Nevertheless, leaders under the age of 18 are expected to follow the policy when acting as leaders or volunteer helpers.)
- Vulnerable adult: a person who, because of his / her age, a disability or other circumstances, whether temporary or permanent, is in a position of dependence on others or is otherwise at a greater risk than the general population of being harmed by persons in positions of authority or trust relative to him/her. (Definition used in Bill C-7, proclaimed by the Government of Canada, August 1, 2000.)
- Volunteer helper: a lay person who is involved peripherally in programs with children, youth, or vulnerable adults, but has not chosen to become a leader. Examples includes: someone who delivers cookies to a children's program, someone who collects and presents socks to homeless people at a shelter, or someone who collects and distributes food bank items to families.

FIRST PHASE: PREPARATION

A. Read the Abuse Policy and Make a Presentation:

A presentation can begin by giving a summary of the policy and how it came to be, and listing some of the advantages of and reasons for putting the policy in place, such as:

- Protecting the young and vulnerable
- Making newcomers and visitors feel more comfortable when they know a policy of safety is in place
- Helping all members to feel more supported and confident when they receive orientation, training and supervision
- Allowing the organization's insurance company to have more confidence that the organization is managing the risk exposures

B. Establish a Committee:

In order to effectively implement an abuse prevention policy, every Place of Worship should form a committee with the unique responsibility of putting the policy into action. This committee should be responsible for making sure that all groups know about the policy and follow the implementation steps with integrity and consistency.

C. List all Current Programs (Ministries):

What programs with children / youth / vulnerable adults are currently being offered? This is a time to list all types of programs that are currently offered, such as:

- Programs with preschoolers
- Programs with grade 1- 6
- Programs with teens
- After school programs
- Other specialized programs, such as a "day-away" program for adults with physical or mental disabilities

D. Write or Adapt Job Descriptions:

Your organization may already have developed position descriptions for each of the programs you described. If you do not have position descriptions, you need to develop them. Samples of some positions can be found in Appendix 1 of this policy. You will need to adapt these samples so they accurately reflect the programs offered by your organization.

Position descriptions are vitally important. They communicate to everyone, whether paid or unpaid, what is expected of them, what skills or experience may be needed, how the organization will provide orientation and training for the task, and what support they can expect to receive.

E. Evaluate Risk Factors:

It is necessary, in many aspects of life, to assess risk and work to reduce it. It is necessary to look at the organization's current programs and explore the risks inherent in each one. For example, you would want to evaluate the risk factors in visiting frail seniors or transporting children and youth in the vehicles of volunteers. You will want to manage these risks carefully.

The committee will determine how much risk there is in current programs, and whether or not this risk can be effectively reduced. Each position requires the completion of a risk assessment. This work is ongoing and must be revisited with each new program year, each change in adult leadership, or after any considerable change in the overall environment of the organization.

Risk assessment for each program should be done annually, as responsibilities associated with positions often change over time. The completed risk assessments should be kept in a locked metal file cabinet.

Note that it may be possible to group certain programs together. For instance, if you have a graded school, you might choose to do a risk assessment for four groupings: nursery and toddlers; 3-5 year old; grade 1 –6; and teens.

Risk assessments are performed in the following cases:

I. General Program / Ministry:

The committee must determine the elements of risk in each program position. Such an assessment is performed by reviewing the position description and considering the most common circumstances under which a person in that position is likely to carry out his or her duties.

II. Specific or Special Events:

Should a leader decide to introduce a new element into a program, he / she must determine the risk for that specific event and submit the risk assessment in writing to the Committee for review prior to the event.

III. Risk Assessment Guide:

If any of the categories below are checked "Yes," the event or program may require additional consideration. See suggestions for reducing risk below.

Risk Category	Risk Factor	Yes	No
Degree of Isolation	The leader / volunteer helper may be alone with person being served.
Degree of Supervision	The leader / volunteer helper has limited or no supervision in role
	The activities of leader / volunteer helper are in a place where activities are not observed or monitored
Access of Property	The leader / volunteer helper has access to personal property or money of persons served.
	The leader / volunteer helper has access to confidential information related to the person served

Degree of Physical Contact	The position description includes touching persons served.
Vulnerability of Persons Served	Persons served have language or literacy barriers.
	Persons served are immobile.
	Persons served have challenges that contribute to their vulnerability (e.g. physical, psychological, and situational).
Degree of Physical Demands	The activity involves potential danger to person served (e.g. rock climbing, using a stove).
	Activity involves potential stress (e.g. children upset by visit to nursing homes, support group activities).
Degree of Trust	The leader / volunteer helper develops close, personal relationships with persons served.
	The position involves transportation of persons served.
	The leader / volunteer helper contributes to making career or other important decisions of persons served.
Degree of Inherent Risk	The activity heightens potential for the leader / volunteer helper to be in contact with bodily fluids or disease of the person served.
	The activity exposes the person served to operation or handling of potentially dangerous equipment (e.g. lawnmower).
	The activity exposes the person served to handling toxic substances or results in exposure to poor air quality, noise, etc. (e.g. demolition work in an inner city mission).

F. How to Reduce Risk:

Sometimes for the sake of the effectiveness of a program, it is simply not feasible to eliminate risks, but in other cases, risks can be lowered without jeopardizing the intended effect. Often, lowering the risk can even improve the quality of the program being offered. Once a risk assessment has been performed for the program or event, there are several options to consider:

I. Forego the Activity / Event / Program in question:

Many dangers can be avoided by simply aborting the situation. However, while some programs are inherently high risk, you may opt to continue them because of their importance.

II. Transfer the Liability:

You may choose to have a service or program offered by someone with professional expertise who carries separate insurance coverage.

III. Modify the Program or Event:

You may make changes as to how the activity is carried out.

Here are some suggestions for reducing risk:

- Follow a two-person policy whenever possible – during any program, have at least two adults present. Where possible, the two adults should be unrelated.
- Require two volunteers/staff to transport children / youth / vulnerable adults in an organization vehicle or in a volunteer's vehicle.
- Visit frail seniors with a partner.
- When the two-person policy cannot be used, notify a parent before a proposed one-to-one contact with a child / youth (e.g. in a mentoring relationship) and ask permission to meet.
- Where the two-person policy cannot be used, require that one-to-one contacts between a volunteer / staff and child / youth / vulnerable adult take place in a public area either inside or outside the organization's facilities, where both people can be seen by others.
- Add a window in the door of each classroom / activity room, or always leave the door open.
- All staff / volunteers working with children / youth / vulnerable adults should wear name tags.
- Parent / caregiver contact information should be carefully maintained.
- Parents of nursery-aged children should be assigned Identification numbers, which must be given before the child will be released.
- No child should be dropped off without a leader present.
- No parents or adults should enter a classroom / activity room without permission.

G. Community Groups Using the Organization's Facilities for Regular, Ongoing Programs:

Up to this point we have focused on programs that are run by the organization. What about community groups who use the organization's facilities? The organization is assumed to be a safe place, even when used by others. Hosting community groups (like Scouts, AA and so on) is part of the outreach and hospitality plan of many Places of Worship. However, as the host, your organization still has responsibilities.

I. Lessee's Risk Management:

Appropriate representatives must meet with each community group using your facilities to explain the abuse policy. The community group may have their own safety / protection policy. If they cannot produce evidence of a policy to the committee, ask them to take a copy of your protocol to the hierarchy of their organization and ask for implementation of a similar policy.

II. Lessee's Insurance:

Even when your organization is a willing host, you must ensure that all regular on-going community groups who use your facilities have insurance coverage. Ask the group to provide a letter from their insurance broker confirming their coverage. If they do not have insurance, check with your insurance company to see if the community group falls under the organization's insurance. Whenever any organization members are involved in a community group using your facilities, it is important to make sure that the members are covered by the organization's insurance.

III. "Terms of Use" Contract:

It is prudent to draw up a “terms of use” contract with regular, ongoing groups who use organization’s premises. This will spell out the responsibilities of each party and you may consider including ‘Hold Harmless’ agreements to transfer the risks involved.

IV. Occasional Users of Your Facilities:

In addition to on-going regular community groups, other groups may occasionally use your facilities. As host, it is the organization’s responsibility to see if these occasional users have their own insurance or are covered by the organization’s insurance policy.

H. Design a “Covenant of Care” Form:

At orientation, leaders and volunteer helpers should be asked to sign a “Covenant of Care” document (or equivalent) stating that the signatory understands the safety standards as presented in the orientation, and agrees to adhere to them. A “Covenant of Care” makes behavioral expectations clear at the outset. A sample form is found in Appendix 2 in this policy. Explain how this code of conduct fits with the organization’s commitment to the safety and well being of all children / youth and vulnerable adults.

I. Examine Safety and Prevention Areas:

In preparation for the orientation, you should examine safety and prevention areas: facilities, fire procedures, transportation issues, requirements of staff / user ratios, off-site activities and overnight events, billeting procedures, and health issues.

I. Facilities:

A facilities checklist is provided in Appendix 3 to ensure the organization can protect children / youth / vulnerable people. Consider additional questions related to your facilities. Facilities, such as camps, should be guided by the facility requirements of their supervisory committee or, in the case of camps, by their provincial accreditation body.

II. Fire Procedures:

Consult with your regional fire prevention agents for safety standards and practices. Post a fire escape map in each room and ensure that fire extinguishers are properly placed. Inform every one of escape routes. An evacuation plan should be clearly defined. Practice the escape drill once a year or as often as directed by your local fire marshal. Prepare a list of individuals who may need assistance in the event of an emergency.

At the beginning of each religious instruction class or activity session, attendance should be recorded, the attendance book picked up and taken to a central location. In the event of a fire, this helps insure that all children are accounted for. Inform parents that, in the unlikely event of a fire, they are not to go in search of their child / youth. The children / youths will all be taken outside as a group to a designated gathering place.

III. Transportation:

A leader / volunteer helper who drives children / youth / vulnerable adults must have a valid driver’s license, valid insurance, and one seatbelt and / or car seat per person in the vehicle.

All adults responsible for the transportation of children, youth and vulnerable adults should avoid driving them when alone. If transportation with personal cars is considered high risk by your insurance company, the liability might be transferred by opting for a professional bus service to transport children / youth / vulnerable adults.

IV. Leader and Participant Ratios:

The activity and age of children / youth affects the ratio of children / youth to staff. The management of the program as well as concern for safety, care, and social interaction are some of the factors to take into account when establishing adequate ratios. If there are not enough leader and adult volunteers, consider whether the program or activity should be held. (Volunteer helpers who work under the supervision of a screened, trained volunteer are welcome additions.)

V. Ratios of Children / Youth / Vulnerable Adults to Teachers / Leaders:

While the rule of having two adults at all times in a group is encouraged, there are occasional times when only one leader is present. In such a situation, the leader should know what to do if he / she is alone with a child. The orientation session held at the beginning of the year should make clear that provision must be made for such an occurrence. Where possible, the two adults should be unrelated.

Here are suggested child / youth / vulnerable adult ratios to leaders in a regular program, but additional adults can be helpful if one adult needs to leave the program temporarily.

0 –18 months	2 adults to 6 children
18 months – 2 years	2 adults to 10 children
2 –5 years	2 adults to 12 children
Ages 5 – 14	2 adults to 15 children
Ages 15 – 18	2 adults to 15 children
Vulnerable adults	2 adults to 10 vulnerable adults

VI. Day Excursions and Overnight Outings:

Here are the recommended participants' ratios to teacher / leader / volunteers on day excursions and overnight outings:

Age	Day Excursions	Overnight Excursions / Activities
5 or under	2 adults per group of 10	Overnight excursions not recommended
Ages 6 –8	2 adults per group of 12	Not recommended for age 6; 4 adults for 20 children for ages 7 & 8
Ages 9 –10	2 adults for every 15 children	2 adults for every 10 children
Ages 10 – 14	2 adults for every 15 children	2 adults for every 10 children
Ages 15 – 18	2 adults for every 15 youth	2 adults for every 10 youth

Vulnerable adults	2 adults per 10 vulnerable adults	2 adults per 10 vulnerable adults
-------------------	-----------------------------------	-----------------------------------

VII. Off-Site Activities and Overnight Events:

The following guidelines must be taken with these activities / events and an activity waiver signed (see Appendix 4 for a sample Activity Program waiver and medical release).

Day Excursions:

- A leader must assess the risk of the activity and submit that assessment in writing to the committee or other appropriate committee for approval prior to the activity.
- Parents / guardians / caregivers must be notified prior to the outing.
- Written consent and medical release forms are required for each child / youth / vulnerable adult participating in activities / events
- At least one leader should have a cell phone and the phone numbers of where the parents of the children / youth can be contacted during the excursion. The leader should have a copy of the completed consent forms with them.
- All day excursions must be supervised by a minimum of two leaders. Additional support workers might be necessary to accompany vulnerable adults.
- When transportation of children / youth / vulnerable adults is needed for an activity, all drivers must have a valid driver's license, valid automobile insurance and must be screened volunteers or paid staff. The number of persons per vehicle must never exceed the number of seat belts or car seats.
- At least one leader should have First Aid training.

Overnight Activities / Events:

Organizations should follow all requirements listed in daytime excursions above plus the following:

- Each child / youth / vulnerable adult is required to follow pre-established codes of conduct signed by the parent / guardian / caregiver and the child / youth / vulnerable adults.
- If the group is comprised of children / youth / vulnerable adults of both genders, leaders of both genders must be present.
- Each leader should have an assigned group of children / youth / vulnerable adults for whom they will be responsible during the overnight event.
- All facilities in which an overnight function is housed must be equipped with smoke detectors and inside release doors. All members of the group should be made aware of fire exits and fire procedures as required by provincial / regional standards.
- No adult should be alone with a single child / youth / vulnerable adult.
- If a day or overnight includes trips to a pool, lake, or hot tub, all municipal / provincial / federal regulations regarding safety and supervision must be adhered to.

Billeting Youths in Private Homes:

Billeting reduces costs and allows youth to meet new people. Here are some things to keep in mind when billeting youth:

- All adults and youths 16 years and older must complete a screening process prior to hosting. This includes: a Police Records Check, and a recommendation from a leader within the organization
- The people offering billeting must be known, trusted members of the organization.
- Guidelines should be distributed to hosts by a program leader, and discussed prior to the arrival of youths at the home
- Any allergy / medical information for billeting youths must be communicated to the hosts prior to their arrival, with clear directions and contact information in the event of an incident
- Children under 14 years of age should not be billeted.
- It is strongly recommended that youths be billeted in small groups, and groups should always be of the same gender
- All youths should have distinct sleeping arrangements separate from other household members
- A curfew should always be enforced when youths are being billeted
- The contact information (telephone number, address) of the individual with whom the youth will be billeted must be obtained by the group leader.

VIII. Health:

While Places of Worship cannot always avoid having ill children / youth / vulnerable adults in their programs, several measures can be taken to promote good health and reduce infection.

Allergies:

When children / youth / vulnerable adults register for a program, organizers should always inquire about allergies. Post this information so that it will not be overlooked. If your program serves meals or snacks, post the menu so that the parent / caregiver can see it. Avoid foods identified as serious allergens such as peanut butter, chocolate, and nuts of any kind. Popcorn can be dangerous for young children.

Injury:

If a participant is injured while participating in a program or activity, the leader must arrange to get the person to medical center. If necessary, call 9-1-1. If the child / youth / vulnerable adult is bleeding, the volunteer / leader should protect himself / herself and all others from the blood. For all injuries, even if the person does not need medical attention, a leader must complete a general incident report (see Appendix 5) and report the incident to the injured person's parent / guardian / caretaker. General incident reports should be filed and stored in a locked metal cabinet, in the event that future reference is necessary.

Infectious Diseases:

Leaders must ask parents / guardians to not let their children / youth attend programs if they have been diagnosed with, or exhibit symptoms of illnesses which are known to be infectious, such as: diarrhea, vomiting, fever, rash, open sores, skin or eye infection, scarlet fever, measles, mumps, chicken pox, whooping cough, head lice.

Checklist for First Phase:

Task	Date	Who is Responsible?
Has a presentation been made to the governing body of the community?
Has a committee been established?
Has the committee listed all the programs currently offered?
Has the committee written or adapted position descriptions for each program?
Has risk been assessed for each program? Have steps been taken to reduce some risk?
Has a "covenant of care" form been produced?
Have safety and prevention areas been inspected and changed if necessary?

SECOND PHASE: WORKING WITH LEADERS / VOLUNTEERS

A. Recruit New Leaders / Volunteers and Support Experienced Leaders / Volunteers:

The Committee has the task of supervising the recruiting of new leaders and volunteers, but they may or may not be the people who customarily recruit in your organization. Regardless of who does the recruiting, the process must include a personal interview, a reference check, and a Police Background Check of the prospective leader or volunteer (See Appendix 6, Sample Application form).

B. Recruiting Process:

A personal interview is an essential way to discover if the applicant is a good fit with a program position. In addition, a conversation with an applicant helps him / her determine whether or not the timing is right for him / her to assume a position. (See Appendix 7, Guide for Interviewing).

C. Experienced Leader/Volunteer:

Do long time, experienced and trusted members need to go through the same recruiting and screening procedures as new recruits? One suggestion is to hold a group interview using some of the questions listed below.

D. Volunteer Screening Check and Police Records Checks:

Screening comes prior to a Police Records Check (PRC). Screening is a process performed by an organization to ensure that the right match is made between the work to be done and the person who will do it. The screening process must also filter out unsuitable candidates, in order to ensure that a safe environment is maintained for all employees, volunteers, and external clients. The screening process includes steps such as job design, recruitment, and orientation. The steps that are most important in determining the suitability of a candidate are interviews, reference checks and a Police Records Check. (The term "Police Records Check" is a general term. In your region, the check may be called a "Volunteer Screening Check" or another term. In addition, both the process and the pay schedules vary greatly across Canada. Ask your regional police agency for the most comprehensive type of check). One of the ten steps in Volunteer Canada's Safe Steps screening program is the PRC. A PRC is a criminal records check, as well as a search of the records in a national database. The PRC can reveal if an individual has been investigated for an incident or incidents. This may or may not be revealed by the police. PRC's have become a standard and accepted part of institutional and organizational procedures for those working with children, youth, and vulnerable persons in schools, hospitals, communities, and religious groups. However, PRC's do have limitations, and that is why they are only one part of the larger screening process. (See Appendix 8 for How PRC's are obtained).

PRC's should be mandatory for all leaders and volunteers in the organization regardless of whether their position specifically deals with children, youth, and / or vulnerable persons. Any position within an organization that ministers to children / youths / vulnerable adults may be seen as an access-point by predators.

I. Handling the Information:

The Committee must handle this information with great care and maintain confidentiality. The individual who obtains a PRC hands it to the designated person. This person reviews the document and gives it back to the individual to whom it belongs. The person who is seeking to be a leader or volunteer “owns” his / her PRC and should keep the original. However, a copy may be given to the organization or the organization should file a record of having seen a PRC. It is extremely important for the Committee to handle this information with strict confidentiality.

II. How Often Must a Check Be Done?

A PRC must be done at any of these points:

- At the time of a new application
- At the time of a change of position
- At a time when the position changes
- Every three years

III. Who Pays for the Check?

Since most PRCs require payment, your organization may decide to pay these fees, or you may ask individuals to pay for it themselves. However, in many regions in Canada, there is no cost for Police Records Checks if the check is needed for the purpose of volunteering. This varies from region to region. Many people may already have a PRC from another volunteer position. Even to make a class presentation, most people are required to present a PRC at a public school. Because individuals have to obtain a PRC for other community responsibilities, this process may be less costly than anticipated.

IV. Are There Limits to PRCs?

There are some limits, but the fact still remains: PRCs can be a positive deterrent in discouraging nefarious individuals from applying for leadership or volunteer positions with children, youth and / or vulnerable adults. Here are some of the limitations of PRCs:

- They are only good up to the day of checking and based on the information provided.
- A person may use a false name, driver’s license, or birth date, so there are no matches found in their record.
- If a conviction occurred when the person was a youth, the information is protected under the Youth Criminal Justice Act; therefore, you will not have access to this information after a certain time period.
- Some sex offenders and abusers have never been charged or convicted of a crime, so there will be no record to review.

E. Provide Orientation and Training for All Leaders / Volunteers:

Orientation for all members – whether new or experienced – is very important. Orientation sessions provide individuals with general information in order to prepare them for their positions. Everyone, whether experienced or new, must attend the orientation sessions. Orientation should be timed to coincide with the start of the majority of the organization's programs. It should include important information about safety practices. A list of what would normally be covered in an orientation session can be found below. It is important that both leaders and volunteers are given an orientation, and trained in accordance with the organization's Safety and Protection policy. Orientation includes items like these:

- A review of position descriptions. Does everyone know what his or her job entails?
- What to do in case of a sudden illness of either themselves or someone in the program. If ill, teachers and leaders should be given instruction about who to inform and how to find a replacement for their program.
- In small organizations where there is only one leader / volunteer, a plan must be made if only one child comes to a program on a particular day.
- How to access supplies and equipment.
- How to access the building, activity rooms, supply cupboards etc.
- Overview of the training sessions that will be available in the year ahead.
- All leaders and volunteers must fill out the Leader / Volunteer form (See Appendix 6 of this policy).
- Safety issues such as fire procedures, transportation (if necessary), washroom practices, and other safety issues which are specific to the situation
- All leaders / volunteers must be given a print form about physical contact, washroom procedures, and information on abuse (See Appendix 9, 10, & 11).
- Leaders must be given a record book to record attendance carefully in case parents need to be advised about a health or safety concern. Attendance should be recorded at the beginning of each program and the attendance book taken to a central place.
- All leaders / volunteers must read, agree and sign a "Covenant of Care" form (See Appendix 2).

F. Provide Supervision of and Support for Volunteers / Leaders:

On-going Support:

After orientation and training, supervision / support and evaluation will be provided. Supervision / support and evaluation provide the following:

- A standard level of practice
- An opportunity for new leaders / volunteers to reflect on what they have learned so they can improve their skills.
- Protection for all participants from unsafe practices
- Protection for leaders / volunteers against false allegations of wrongdoing.

The position description is used as a reference point. For instance, in the description, a supervisor / co-coordinator may tell new leaders that he / she should know to expect a visit from the supervisor. The level of risk of the program or event determines the amount and frequency of supervision / support and evaluation.

Comments and feedback from participants and their families / caregivers are also helpful for new leaders / volunteers. Supervisors need to ask new leaders / volunteers to maintain open, frequent communication with program participants and their families/caregivers. Supervisors may assure new leaders / volunteers that, if negative feedback is received, the supervisors will honor confidentiality but will work with the leaders / volunteers to make any necessary changes.

Checklist for Second Phase:

Task	Date	Who is Responsible?
Have new leaders / volunteers been recruited in a satisfactory way? Have experienced leaders / volunteers been involved in a group interview?
Have all leaders / volunteers (new and experienced) been part of an orientation session? Have all attendees signed a Covenant of Care?
Have all leaders / volunteers in high risk programs obtained a Police Records Check?
Have all leaders participated in some form of leadership training?
Is someone in a position of authority providing on-going supervision and support for leaders / volunteers?

THIRD PHASE: EVALUATION AND REPORTING

A. Evaluate the Policy and Report to Supervising Body:

At least twice a year the Committee should meet to evaluate how things are going in your organization. These key questions will guide the evaluation:

- What positive things have we noticed as a result of introducing the Policy?
- Are there special problems that have emerged that require attention?
- Are there things that we need to plan for in the future?

It is important to do an evaluation of position descriptions and risk assessments on an annual basis. As programs change and evolve, the position descriptions and risk assessments will also change. It is also very important that the committee report these evaluations to the appropriate governing body at least twice a year.

Reporting to all levels of the organization (local, regional and national) is typically required, and the process for doing this should follow your specific organization's internal reporting requirements.

B. Collect and Retain Necessary Documents:

The purpose of retaining screening and training records is to ensure that, in the unfortunate event that an allegation is brought against the organization, documentation exists to prove that preventative measures were in place, and were being followed. This pertains to employment / volunteer applications (and the attendant police checks and references) as well as records of induction training, performance appraisals, and refresher courses. It can also be helpful to include a signed "Covenant of Care" (or equivalent) document, indicating that employees and volunteers have made a clear commitment to observe industry-accepted 'best practices.' One of the few effective legal defenses available is to prove that adequate measures were taken prior to an incident. It is also important that the organization retain copies of all insurance policies, particularly where insurers may have changed over the years. This is necessary so that, in the event that a claim is brought forward, it can be determined which insurer was on risk at a particular time.

Organizations should also ensure that the details of any incidents or allegations of abuse are documented and retained. In some cases, legal demands for compensation may not be made until several years after the alleged abuse took place. If pertinent details are not permanently retained, an organization may face serious difficulty defending itself. Documentation plays an important role in substantiating a complaint, and can be extremely useful when alleged incidents are reported to the organization's insurer. The information that should be permanently retained includes but is not limited to:

- All employment / volunteer applications
- Employee / volunteer screening records (this includes any notes made during the reference-checking process, and a copy of the Police Background Check performed on each employee / volunteer)
- Signed and dated "Covenant of Care" forms (or equivalent)
- Records of Induction training and attendance at refresher-courses (the use of training review forms is recommended. These forms, which are signed by both the trainer and staff member or volunteer, can be used as documentary evidence of what training has been delivered, and that the person receiving the training has understood and agreed to all of the learning objectives)

- Details regarding any probationary restrictions placed on new employees / volunteers
- Documentation regarding any allegations of abuse or misconduct (including: the name, age, sex, and address of both the victim and the alleged perpetrator, the nature of the abuse that is alleged to have occurred, the number of times the alleged abuse occurred, the date and location of the incident, the relationship between the victim and the alleged perpetrator, and any other evidence, such as medical exams, witnesses etc.)
- Attendance Records
- Copies of all policies of insurance secured by the organization

Please refer to “Legal and Insurance Considerations” in Appendix 13 for additional information on the importance of document retention.

C. How to Manage Confidential Information:

Records that are of a personal, confidential nature must be kept in accordance with the privacy policy of the organization. Information about the collected data is confidential and will be used only for the purpose for which it was collected, that is, implementing and monitoring this policy. Information will be safely stored and only accessed by those who need to access it for purpose of the policy. In some cases, the use of a third party document management facility may be considered for this purpose if appropriate.

Confidential information must be stored in a fire proof, locked metal cabinet. The information should include a copy of the Covenant of Care form, the Leader / Volunteers application form, documentation of individual Police Records Checks, performance evaluation records, and completed incident forms. The organization will designate one or two individuals to have a key to this cabinet.

D. How Does PIPEDA Affect This Policy?

PIPEDA, the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act, became effective in Canada in January 2004. While this Act provides useful and necessary protection for Canadians, many organizations are not subject to PIPEDA because they do not collect, use, or dispose of commercial goods. Individual organizations should make sure that their rights and obligations under Canada’s privacy laws are known and understood.

Guide for Interviewing

Interviewing a New Recruit

The interview may be either formal or informal, using questions like these:

- Tell us about yourself. What attracted you to our organization?
- What activities help you to grow and mature in your faith?
- Tell us about your experience working with [children, youth or vulnerable adults].
- Why do you want to assume this position?
- This position requires [List requirements]. Will you be able to meet these requirements?
(Check with your provincial government about questions which you may or may not ask in interviews.)

During the interview, discuss the policy, the orientation session, and the training you offer to all leaders. Explain that, as part of your organization's commitment to ensuring a safe and nurturing environment, you would like to speak to two references who they have known for at least a year.

Thank the applicant for seriously considering leadership in your Place of Worship and promise another visit or a phone call in the near future. After the interview, call the references provided and ask questions such as the ones suggested below.

If your committee believes that the new recruit is a suitable candidate for a leader / volunteer position, call him/her with the good news and arrange orientation and training times.

Group Interview with Experienced Leaders

Leaders who have been involved in program leadership for many years can be invited to participate in a group interview. This can take the form of coffee and a snack and should be framed as a way for the organization to support the leader in his/her program. Each person should be asked to respond to questions like these:

- What originally motivated you to become a program leader?
- What motivates you to continue in your role as program leader?
- In the years that you have been a leader, what has given you most satisfaction?
- What do you consider to be the most challenging or difficult thing about being a leader?
- What are your hopes and dreams for the people you lead?

Following Up on References

It is important to speak to at least two references provided by the applicant. References are extremely helpful and must be requested with all new recruits, both paid and volunteer. Even if members of the committee know a person well, they may not have seen him / her interact with others at work, with children at play, in a teaching / leading capacity, or while visiting with an elderly, mentally ill or homeless person. Even if written references are provided, follow up with a phone call. Inform the reference of the nature of the position. Ask his / her opinion about the person's suitability in this situation, e.g., "John may be co-leading a group of Junior High students on the weekends. Would you be comfortable with John having this type of responsibility?" or "Jamal has applied to be the coordinator of our "In from the Cold" program, which feeds and shelters homeless people during the winter. Tell us what you know about his abilities to volunteer and to relate to the overnight guests." Listen to tone, attitude, and any hesitancy as well as to the words the reference uses. Contact at least two references.

Sample Reference Check Form

Person's name for which references are checked: _____

Person contacted: _____ Phone: _____

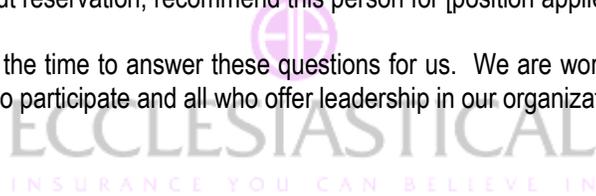

Contacted by: _____

Date: _____ Person who contacted reference: _____

Introduce yourself and state the purpose of your call. Ask if they have a few minutes to answer some questions.

1. How long have you known [person's name]?
2. In what capacity do you know him/her?
3. How well do you feel you know [person's name]?
4. Could you briefly describe the character and personality of [person's name]?
5. Have you ever been in a position to work with him/her? If so, what was your impression?
6. What gifts, talents and abilities would this person offer to [Insert your organization name here]?
7. Are you aware of any factors or circumstances involving this person that would bring into question his/her ability to perform [position applied for]?
8. Would you, without reservation, recommend this person for [position applied for]?

"Thank you for taking the time to answer these questions for us. We are working hard to provide a safe environment for all who participate and all who offer leadership in our organization."

Appendix 8

How is a Police Records Check carried out?

To conduct a PRC, the local police query the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) database. CPIC was an initiative of the RCMP, who maintain the network. Individual policing regions maintain their own information within the system and have access to the entire database. From this database police can determine if a person has outstanding charges or convictions. Information collected in the CPIC database includes data about individuals who:

- Have a criminal record for any Criminal Code or other Federal Statute offence and/or
- Have been judged not criminally responsible for an offence because of mental disorder and/or
- Have federal and/or provincial charges pending and/or
- Are on probation or subject to a Prohibition Order.

In addition, police agencies compile information, when warranted, about all complaints they receive. Examples of complaints include:

- Abuse of children
- Allegations of offences where charges were not laid.

These may or may not be revealed by the police in a PRC. Traffic violations and liquor-violations are not revealed in a PRC. If a volunteer position requires driving a vehicle that person must be required to obtain and present an Abstract or Statement of Driving Record, which can be obtained by contacting any provincial ministry of transportation or department of motor vehicles.

Note that a PRC cannot be conducted without the individual's written consent. In some cases the PRC must be obtained in person.

Since 2001, as a result of amendments to the Criminal Records Act, criminal records of pardoned sex offenders can be made available to organizations that work with vulnerable people. A search of the CPIC database for pardoned sexual offences cannot be conducted without the individual's consent.

What if you have a criminal record?

If the information obtained by the police indicates that you have a criminal record, does that mean you cannot volunteer? To this question, there is no black and white answer. The committee and/or the governing body must deal with these matters in the same way that they need to deal with other confidential matters. Sometimes it will be deemed wise to deny the individual a leadership position with children / youth / vulnerable adults. Sometimes, it will be deemed wise to urge the person to accept a position that indirectly supports children / youth / vulnerable adults. Sometimes it will be deemed wise to always have an individual working with another adult. Organizations may look at the following factors when considering an application:

- The nature of the organization and its work
- The nature of the offence
- The relevance of the criminal record to the position you are applying for.

Appendix 9

Information Sheets for Volunteers / Leaders

Physical Contact

It is essential to be careful regarding behavior, language and physical contact when working with children / youth / vulnerable adults:

- Do not show favoritism when dealing with children / youth / vulnerable adults. Show a similar level of affection and kindness to all.
- Do not engage in or allow the telling of sexual jokes or behave in a way that promotes the sexual exploitation of others.
- Provide clearly stated consequences for inappropriate behavior. Stop inappropriate behavior early. Be fair, consistent and reasonable, matching consequences to the age and ability to the child / youth.
- Do not use corporal punishment such as hitting, spanking or strapping.

Appropriate and inappropriate touching

A touch can convey a multitude of positive messages and communicate care, comfort and love; however, it is important to distinguish between appropriate and inappropriate touching. It is also important to be aware of, and sensitive to, differences in interpretation to touching based on sex, culture or personal experience.

Some examples of appropriate touch:

- Love and care can usually be expressed in the following common sense ways:
- Holding or rocking an infant who is crying
- Affirming a participant with a pat on the hand, shoulder, or back
- Bending down to the child's eye level and placing a hand gently on the child's hand or forearm
- Putting your arm around the shoulder of a person who needs comfort
- Taking a child's hand and leading him / her to an activity
- Holding hands for safety when changing locations
- Shaking a person's hand in greeting
- Holding a child gently by the hand or shoulder to keep his / her attention as you redirect behavior
- Providing comfort with a wet, warm cloth.

Some examples of inappropriate touch:

- Kissing a child / youth / vulnerable adult or coaxing them into kissing you
- Extended cuddling
- Tickling
- Piggy-back rides
- Having others sit on your lap (except for babies / young toddlers)
- Touching anyone in any area normally covered by a bathing suit (except changing an infant's diapers)
- Hand holding, except for the examples listed above
- Stroking a child / youth's hair
- Hugging, where an adult knows or ought to have known that hugging is inappropriate.

Dealing with a participant's inappropriate behavior

The best approach to dealing with inappropriate behavior is thoughtful prevention. If a leader has been adequately prepared for teaching/leading, makes clear statements about expectations, and provides an engaging program, inappropriate behavior will be avoided or reduced. If, however, a child / youth / vulnerable adult's behavior is unacceptable, these practices must be followed:

- Tell or remind the child / youth / vulnerable adult what is expected.
- If it is necessary to speak to a child / youth / vulnerable adult in private, move to a quiet place in view of others. Seek supervisory help if needed and if available.
- Keep children / youth / vulnerable adults from harming themselves or others.
- If necessary, engage another adult to help you remove the child / youth / vulnerable adult from the situation, in order to calm down.
- Discipline with children and youth must be limited to talking and time out. Correction to a vulnerable adult must be limited to talking to a vulnerable adult or his / her guardian.
- Provide a 'time-out' space for younger children on one side of the room until they are ready to rejoin the group. The 'time-out' should be no longer than one minute for each year of the child's age.
- Inform the parent / guardian of the problem and work co-operatively with them. They may have good ideas of how to deal with particular situations.

Do not use corporal punishment (such as hitting, spanking or strapping) under any circumstances.

Appendix 10

Washroom procedures

Every group providing a program or ministry for children / youth / vulnerable adults must determine the washroom procedure that will be followed in that program at the time of determining the risk. This is particularly critical with pre-school children and some vulnerable adults who must have help to use the washroom. Here are guidelines:

- Ask parents of pre-school children to take their child to the washroom before class.
- For nursery aged children, diaper changing is to be done only by designated adult personnel and must be conducted within the view of another leader / volunteer. If at all possible, diaper changing should be done by the child's parent or guardian.
- Children under the age of 6 who need to go to the washroom should be accompanied by a leader who escorts the child to the washroom and checks the bathroom for safety. No adult or teen helper is ever to be in a closed washroom or cubicle with a child. If another adult is not available, the adult who accompanies the child should position him / her in plain view at the open door of the washroom. A volunteer or teen helper may stay behind with the remaining children.
- Children aged 6 and over may go to the washroom with a "buddy."
- Male personnel are not to accompany female children to the washroom.
- If there is an emergency bathroom situation, the parent or supervisor should be notified immediately.
- Vulnerable adults may need special bathroom aids: assists bars, and so on. It may be necessary to ensure that cleanliness follows use.

Appendix 11

Understanding Child / Youth / Vulnerable Adult Abuse:

This policy advocates zero tolerance for any form of abuse. This includes abuse that happens to a child / youth / vulnerable adult by a staff member or volunteer. There is also a need for adults within the organization to be sensitive to incidents of abuse that may be happening in the home or social life of a child / youth / vulnerable adult.

Any person who has reasonable grounds to suspect that a child / youth is (or may be) in need of protection must report that suspicion to a protective agency or police authority. A volunteer / leader who hears an allegation of abuse should confide this to a designated authority within the organization. A high ranking official in the organization should be identified as the contact for reporting all cases.

In order to understand and recognize child abuse, the following definitions and indications of emotional, physical and sexual abuse or neglect are listed. Some of the following also apply to vulnerable adults. A more complete description of abuse of vulnerable adults is found below. All organizations are asked to supplement this with information from a provincial / territorial child protection agency.

What is Child / Youth Abuse?

The term “child abuse” refers to the violence, mistreatment or neglect that a child or adolescent may experience while in the care of someone they either trust or depend on, such as a parent, sibling, other relative, caregiver or guardian. Abuse may take place anywhere and may occur, for example, within the child’s home or that of someone known to the child. There are many different forms of abuse and a child may be subjected to more than one form:

- Physical abuse may consist of just one incident or it may happen repeatedly. It involves a deliberately using force against a child in such a way that the child is either injured or is at risk of being injured. Physical abuse includes beating, hitting, shaking, pushing, choking, biting, burning, kicking or assaulting a child with a weapon. It also includes holding a child under water, or any other dangerous or harmful use of force or restraint.
- Sexual abuse and exploitation involves using a child for sexual purposes. Examples of child sexual abuse include fondling, inviting a child to touch or be touched sexually, intercourse, rape, incest, sodomy, exhibitionism, or involving a child in prostitution or pornography.
- Neglect is often chronic, and it usually involves repeated incidents. It involves failing to provide what a child needs for his or her physical, psychological or emotional development and well being. For example, neglect includes failing to provide a dependent child with food, clothing, shelter, cleanliness, medical care or protection from harm.
- Emotional abuse involves harming a child’s sense of self-worth. It includes acts (or omissions) that result in, or place a child at risk of, serious behavioral, cognitive, emotional, or mental health problems. For example, emotional abuse may include aggressive verbal threats, social isolation, intimidation, exploitation, or routinely making unreasonable demands. It also includes terrorizing a child, or exposing them to family violence.

An abuser may use a number of different tactics to gain access to a child, exert power and control over them, and prevent them from telling anyone about the abuse or seeking support. A child who is being abused is usually in a position of dependence on the person who is abusing them. Abuse is a misuse of power and a violation of trust. The abuse may happen once or it may occur in a repeated and escalating pattern over a period of months or years. The abuse may change form over time.

Abuse of Vulnerable Adults:

While some factors may not apply to all vulnerable adults (e.g. the developmentally challenged), most characteristics are equally applicable to all vulnerable adults. Although individuals may be abused at virtually any life stage – childhood, adolescence, young adulthood, middle age, or old age – the nature and consequences of abuse may differ depending on an individual's situation. Older adults' experiences of abuse, for example, may be related to their living arrangement (they may be living alone, with family members or others, or in an institution). Their experiences may also be linked to their level of reliance on others, including family members or other care providers, for assistance and support in daily living.

Abuse of older adults is often described as a misuse of power and a violation of trust. Abusers may use a number of different tactics to exert power and control over their victims. Abuse may happen once or it may occur in a repeated and escalating pattern over months or years. The abuse may take many different forms, which may change over time.

Types of Abuse:

Psychological abuse includes attempts to dehumanize or intimidate older adults. Any verbal or non-verbal act that reduces their sense of self-worth or dignity and threatens their psychological and emotional integrity is abuse. This type of abuse may include, for example:

- Threatening to use violence
- Threatening to abandon them
- Intentionally frightening them
- Making them fear that they will not receive the food or care they need
- Lying to them
- Failing to check allegations of abuse against them

Financial abuse encompasses financial manipulation or exploitation, including theft, fraud, forgery, or extortion. It includes using an older adult's money or property in a dishonest manner, or failing to use an older adult's assets for their welfare. Anytime someone acts without consent in a way that financially or personally benefits one person at the expense of another it is abuse. This type of abuse against an older adult may include, for example:

- Stealing their money, pension cheques or other possessions
- Selling their homes or other property without their permission
- Wrongfully using a Power of Attorney
- Not allowing them to move into a long-term care facility in order to preserve access to their pension
- Failing to pay back borrowed money when asked

Physical abuse includes any act of violence – whether or not it results in physical injury. Intentionally inflicting pain or injury that results in either bodily harm or mental distress is abuse. Physical abuse may include, for example:

- Beating
- Burning or scalding
- Pushing or shoving
- Hitting or slapping
- Rough handling
- Tripping

- Spitting

All forms of sexual abuse are also applicable to older / vulnerable adults.

What are some potential warning signs of abuse?

Some of the signs that may indicate an older adult is being abused include:

- Depression, fear, anxiety, passivity
- Unexplained, physical injuries
- Dehydration, malnutrition or lack of food
- Poor hygiene, rashes, pressure sores
- Over-sedation

Dealing with Reports of Abuse:

There should be a separate policy in place to deal with reports or allegations regarding the abuse of children, youth, and vulnerable adults.

When a child, youth, or vulnerable adult is upset or distressed about a situation, he / she may turn to a trusted adult for support and advice. Often, though, they may be hesitant and shy about discussing what has happened. Feelings of guilt or shame are common. The volunteer / leader should help the child / youth / vulnerable adult feel safe and understand that they can talk about what happened. A vulnerable adult, disabled or confined, may not be able to tell anyone, so volunteers / leaders or visitors need to be sensitive and aware of any change in appearance / emotion.

A listening adult should be supportive and pay attention to what is said. Be cautious about asking questions. Asking questions can invalidate future statements to police or child welfare authorities and can cause a case to be dismissed in court. Accept the child / youth / vulnerable adult's story; do not dispute it. Investigating the incident is the responsibility of the protection agency or police. Although it may be difficult, be calm, supportive and helpful.

It is important not to make promises that you cannot keep, such as promising to stop the abuse, punish or remove the offender. Do not promise not to report the incident to the authorities. If you have inadvertently promised to keep what the child / youth / vulnerable adult says confidential, tell him / her that you must tell someone who can help you both.

Note: Any person who has reasonable grounds to suspect that a child / youth / vulnerable adult is, or may be in need of protection must report the suspicion to a protective agency or police authority. A leader/volunteer who hears an allegation of abuse should confide this to the leader of the organization or designated member of the executive board of the organization.

Reporting to a Protection Agency:

If the person has reasonable grounds to suspect that a child / youth / vulnerable adult is or may be in need for protection, the person must promptly report the suspicion and the information on which it is based to a children's aid society or other appropriate protection agency.

Professionals or officials must report any suspicion that a child is or has been in need of protection, where such a suspicion arises from information revealed in the course of his or her professional or official duties. By the way of example, in Ontario, professionals who fail to report a suspicion of abuse may be fined up to $1,000, according to provincial standards.

Information Needed by a Protection Agency:

When one calls a protection agency, that person should prepare notes on why he / she is calling.

- Ask for an intake screener.
- Give your name and location, or you may remain anonymous.
- State that you are making a report regarding a person you believe to be in need of protection.
- Give your relationship to the person and / or family
- Indicate what you heard from the child / youth / vulnerable adult, or what you observed.

- Offer facts such as dates, descriptions of the child / youth / vulnerable adult and identifying facts about people who were involved.
- Share knowledge of other agency or community involvement if known.
- Provide any relevant background information.

Procedure if Contacted by a Protection Agency:

1. Any request from a child protection worker (see photo ID or badge to verify identity) should normally be made in person. The worker will want to speak with the person filing the alleged abuse report and usually to the person to whom the child / youth spoke. If the matter is urgent and those investigating cannot do a personal interview, the investigator may telephone you from his / her office.
2. The child protection agent should identify themselves and provide their business contact phone number. Record the workers first and last name.
 - Do not give any information at this time. The investigator will explain the process to follow and what information he / she is seeking
 - It is your responsibility to verify that this is indeed a child protection agent. Simply say, “I need to move to another phone. May I phone you back in 30 seconds?” Move to a phone where you can ensure confidentiality.
 - When you return the call, provide the necessary information.
 - Ask what is to happen next. This is critical as a court order may be warranted and restraining order put in place. The organization should be aware of this. Details do not need to be given. Ask when the organization can expect a final report on the case if further information will be required.
 - Make clear written notes about what you reported, date, time, phone number and name of investigator. Place in a confidential, locked, metal file cabinet.

Reporting to the Insurance Carrier

Any allegation of abuse, no matter how minor, should be reported immediately to your organization’s insurance company. The prompt reporting of incidents is extremely important, because it allows your insurer to intervene and help manage the situation.

Organizational Response to a Report of Abuse:

Disclosure of an incident of alleged abuse is an emotionally charged experience. When an individual discloses that he / she is a victim of alleged abuse, it is important to:

- Assure him / her that he / she will be listened to and be provided with support throughout the process
- Take the allegations seriously
- Keep emotions in check; when disbelief or horror is shown, it may result in the individual becoming withdrawn or unwilling to share the experience with you
- “Listen more, talk less”
- Remind him / her that he / she is in no way at fault for the abuse
- Affirm that it is always appropriate to tell someone the he / she has been abused
- Remind him / her that your first priority is his / her protection
- Reassure him / her that ongoing care will be provided for him / her and his / her family
- Provide support to him / her; give reassurance that he / she has done the right thing in reporting this incident

- Report the incident to a designated senior authority within the organization

Do Not:

- Promise him / her that you will not tell anyone; some secrets should not be kept secret; assure the individual that this information is to be restricted to those who need to be advised.
- Prejudge the situation
- Take an adversarial approach, or defend the alleged perpetrator by making comments like, “I can’t believe they did that.”

Response to the Media:

If it is deemed essential to respond to media, a designated individual will be the spokesperson for the organization. A sample response could be as follows.

“All allegations of abuse or harassment are taken seriously. The protection of children / youth / vulnerable adults is a priority of (your organization.) In accordance with civil law, an allegation of abuse has been reported to (insert the name of the appropriate governmental protection agency).”

Legal and Insurance Considerations

Most forms of abuse are punishable under sections of the Criminal Code of Canada. If abuse is proven in a court of law, criminal punishment will usually be imposed on the perpetrator. When this happens, an organization may find itself drawn into a civil suit for damages if it failed to exercise due diligence. An organization can be held liable for institutional abuse in the following ways:

- Vicarious Liability: This is a form of no-fault liability that can attach to an organization even if the organization did not know about the incident of abuse, and even if adequate prevention policies were followed. In the past, Canadian courts have held that, even when organizations have little or no control over the harmful acts of an employee or volunteer, they must bear some of the responsibility for having afforded perpetrators a “job-created opportunity” to commit them.
- Direct Negligence: If abuse occurs because an organization has failed to meet an expected level of competence, it may find itself liable for direct negligence. This might occur if an organization has failed to adequately screen its employees, if it has retained an employee after becoming aware that they pose a threat to children or vulnerable adults, or if it has neglected to ensure that employees in sensitive positions are properly trained and supervised.
- Breach of Fiduciary Duty: This is liability that can attach to an organization if it is known that an implied or direct understanding of trust was broken. For example, it is generally understood that an organization will protect and care for children, so if the organization’s policy leads to a child not being cared for, that understanding of trust is broken and this kind of liability may follow.

Where abuse is proven, a court may award three types of damages. These damages are often assessed against organizations that have been deemed vicariously liable, rather than against the perpetrators themselves, because organizations typically represent a more adequate source of funds. Generally, an organization’s insurance coverage will protect only the interests of the insured organization – it will not protect the perpetrator of the abuse.

- Pecuniary or “Special” Damages – These are amounts awarded to the victim for quantifiable monetary losses suffered as a result of abuse. (Example: lost wages)
- Non-Pecuniary or “General” Damages – These are amounts awarded to the victim for losses that are not readily quantifiable. (Example: pain and suffering)
- Punitive Damages – Punitive damages are intended to penalize a perpetrator for blatantly reckless conduct. Punitive damages are not assessed against defendants in criminal cases (where judgments are already considered “punishment”), but they may be awarded in civil litigation. For example, if it is shown that an organization outright refused to implement screening procedures, and abuse occurs as a result, a court may apply a punitive amount to the total award. Most insurance policies do not provide coverage for punitive damages, as this would be against the public interest.

Document Retention and Reporting Considerations:

Any allegation of abuse, no matter how minor, should be reported immediately to your organization’s insurance company. The prompt reporting of incidents is extremely important, because it allows your insurer to intervene and help manage the situation. Retained screening and training records can be vital toward this end.

Because there is virtually no statute of limitations of many forms of abuse, legal proceedings for misconduct are often brought many years after an incident was alleged to have taken place. If adequate documentation (regarding both screening and training procedures, and any allegations / incident details) is not provided, an insurer may face serious difficulty defending the interests of the organization. Documentation plays an important role in substantiating a complaint, and one of the few effective legal defenses available is to prove that adequate preventative guidelines were in place at the time that the alleged incident took place.

If abuse is alleged in an environment within an organization's purview, the organization may be found legally liable. Insurance coverage does not negate the liability, but may provide important financial coverage for legal defense and / or settlement costs, should the organization be confronted with legal action. Implementing the following guidelines will increase the likelihood that your insurer will provide liability coverage for various forms of physical and sexual abuse:

- Clear definitions for all forms of abuse so that everyone, including volunteers, understands the requirements and boundaries.
- Recruitment procedures to screen unacceptable candidates.
- A clearly defined "Covenant of Care: for employees and volunteers
- Training and coaching procedures to ensure understanding of what is considered to be abuse and how to prevent occurrences and allegations
- Monitoring and evaluation procedures
- Communication and feedback procedures
- Procedures to screen employees and adult volunteers, such as:
 - Completion of application forms
 - Written statements of commitment to safety and procedures
 - Interview conducted by at least two interviewers
 - Completed reference checks
 - Police Records Checks/Volunteer Screening Checks
 - Approval followed by orientation and probation.
